– Może wody! – W drzwiach pojawia się projektant, dosiada się i kieruje na mnie wintrecek. Haider Ackermann uchodzi za jednego z ostatnich romantyków w modzie. Perfekcjonista, który wyleciał ze studiów w Royal Academy of Fine Arts w Antwerpii, bo nie był w stanie dokończyć żadnego zadania, ciągle coś zmieniał, poprawiał. Dziś słynie z precyzyjnego krawiectwa, ale i zmysłowych drapeerii. Dużo w jego projektach zapożyczeń z mody męskiej, do tego stopnia, że od roku w pokazach taką samą marynarkę czy płaszcz raz nosi model, raz modelka. – Uważam, że jest w tym coś pociągającego, kiedy kobieta zakłada ubranie swojego partnera. To znacznie bardziej seksowne niż nagość – mówi.
Poza wybiegiem jego ubrania najczęściej można zobaczyć na Tildzie Swinton, z którą Ackermann przyjaźni się od lat. – Nie mówię o niej ambasadorka – zastrzega. – To moja >

FAVORITE CONVERSATION

FAVORITE PLACE ON EARTH

Anywhere where the sea meets a big cliff. I love the sound and the smell and the brute force of water smashing into the hard rock and then gently glides away like nothing ever happened. Preferably when it's a bit chilly with a big jumper and some red wine on the beach.

FAVORITE FASHION MOMENT

Closing the Prada show last year. I had no idea until we were in the lineup for the show and it was such an amazing feeling.

FAVORITE CHILDHOOD MEMORY

When I think about the memories that warm my heart my parents were always close. Whether it was during a big party they threw with all their friends where everyone was singing together or driving home in the dark from the west coast of Sweden, listening to some cassette my dad found at a flea market. I guess my favorite memory was the feeling of always feeling safe and loved by them.
